GENERAL DODD SAYS HIS LIFE WAS IN PERIL

Seoul, Korea (AP)—Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd said tonight Communist prisoners of war who held him hostage on Kojima Island our days last week threatened to kill him if the U. S. Eighth Army tried to rescue him by force.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, new supreme U. N. commander, said in Tokyo the Red POWs were granted some minor concessions. He armed their original demands for Dodd's release "unadulterated blackmail." He seemed to hint they would not be honored.

Dodd read a statement to correspondents saying he was convinced the United Nations Command threats to use force "had a decided effect" in obtaining his release Saturday night.

The correspondents were not permitted to question the general. It was the first time they had been allowed to see him.

Dodd said he was well treated by the Reds while a captive in Compound 76 on the island—the U. N. No. 1 camp for tough prisoners. He seemed healthy.

The general said demands made by the prisoners in exchange for his release were "inconsequential" and that concessions granted by the camp authorities were "of minor importance."

Newsmen were permitted to visit Kojima today for the first time since the Wednesday seizure of Dodd, then prison camp commander there.

Stockade officers said the prisoners apparently had planned the capture of at least a week in advance.

Gen. Dodd, reading from a four-page statement, in a clear, strong voice, said "the demands made by the POWs are inconsequential and the concessions granted by the camp authorities were of minor importance."

Dodd read his statement to the press after being held behind a wall of secrecy for 48 hours. He wore a pistol on his hip, strapped into a holster with a gaudy silver buckle.

He seemed healthy, despite his ordeal.

Newsmen were not permitted to ask the general a single question when he finished his prepared statement.

Leading G. O. P. Candidates Looking to Rhode Island and Wyoming for Additional Votes

By The Associated Press
Both Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower expect to win new national convention votes today as Wyoming and Rhode Island Republicans meet in state conventions to select 20 delegates.

Wyoming Democrats also are meeting to elect 10 delegates. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee attended a pre-convention caucus last night before leaving for Denver today and later Oregon.

Eisenhower forces in Rhode Island were confident they would get most, if not all, of Rhode Island's eight delegates.

As the busy political week got under way—13 conventions with 166 delegate votes at stake—Taft had 343 votes and Eisenhower 290, according to an Associated Press tally based on delegates pledged, conceded, instructed, favorable, or willing to state a first-ballot choice.

Both GOP contenders picked up new votes Saturday. Taft added 11 and Eisenhower four as 86 delegates were selected in party meetings in Nevada, Utah, Michigan, Missouri, and Virginia. Republicans chose 24, Democrats 62, most of whom were uncommitted and uninstructed.

The Wyoming and Rhode Island conventions touch off a politically packed week with activity also scheduled in West Virginia, North Dakota, Vermont, Oregon and Hawaii.

U. N. PLANES BLAST KOREAN RAIL NETWORK

Seoul, Korea (AP)—United Nations warplanes today blasted the North Korean rail network with another of their saturation bombings designed to make track repairs as tough as possible for the Reds.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said fighter-bombers made 28 cuts in a short stretch on the vital Kangye-Sinanju line near Huichon in the northwest. Nine U. S. B29s hit the Huichon rail bridge yesterday with 80 tons of bombs. Fighter-bombers cratered rails in more than 80 places on a small section south of Suncheon at the same time. The stretches of track are on main rail routes from Manchuria to the North Korean capital Pyongyang.

U. S. Marine Corsairs and Panterjets attacked Communist front lines today. The Air Force said they wrecked 16 bunkers and destroyed eight gun positions with explosives.

U. N. troops threw back three Red probes on the Western Front and six on the Eastern Front in the Munsung Valley.

The Eighth Army said it killed 1,149 Reds, wounded 1,364 and captured 21 from May 1 through May 7. It was a drop of more than 400 casualties from the previous week. U. N. warships bombarded Red supply areas, gun and troop positions on both coasts of North Korea yesterday.

TWO SHOT DOWN ON PHILADELPHIA STREET

Philadelphia (AP)—An assailant shot a woman to death and critically wounded her male companion in a case of gunfire near the Presbyterian Hospital last night.

Police identified the woman, pursued and shot down while her 12-year-old daughter, Alice, covered in a nearby gas station, as Mrs. Mabel Morine, 30, of Philadelphia.

Her companion, James Wilson, 34, of Wilmington, Del., was reported in a critical condition with a bullet wound in the chest. Police quoted witnesses as saying they saw a man, not identified, approach Wilson and the woman, argue briefly, then suddenly whip out a pistol and open fire.

Oil Strike Parley Is Planned in Capital

Denver (AP)—With a major settlement for background, leaders of the striking oil workers and company officials got ready for tomorrow's showdown meeting with the Wage Stabilization Board.

Already the strike has had world-wide effects.

The United States and Britain asked all nations to conserve dwindling supplies of aviation gasoline. They warned global restrictions may follow.

Military flying is down to essentials. More civilian flights are suspended each day. Motorists are feeling the growing pinch.

A. O. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers International Union, largest of the 22 unions striking for higher wages, flew to Washington yesterday to prepare for the meeting called by the WSB.

West Germany Has A Bloody Weekend

Bonn, Germany (AP)—West Germany's impending peace contract brought a bloody weekend-end battle to industrial Essen and reports today that East Germany's Communist rulers are readying a drastic step-up in the cold war against the West and tighter Russian-East German ties.

One young Communist was killed in the Essen riot, in which police gunfire broke up a clash between anti-Reds and 30,000 Communist-led youths demonstrating against plans to rearm West Germany for Western defenses.

Heinrich Konrad Adenauer met with rebellious coalition forces. Their opposition to the peace pact threatens its chances of ratification by the West German Parliament.

Y. M. C. A. ELECTION

Harrisburg (AP)—Dr. Roy H. Stetler, Harrisburg church leader and publisher of the Evangelical Press, was re-elected today to his fifth term as president of the State Young Men's Christian Association.

VOLUNTEER DONORS NEEDED WEDNESDAY

The Bloodmobile will be at headquarters, 404 Market street, Wednesday beginning at ten o'clock in the morning and today local Red Cross Chapter officials issued an urgent appeal for fifty volunteer donors. The emergency developed when that many cancellations were received from donors scheduled for appearance Wednesday. Those in charge remind volunteers that they should arrange to appear during the morning hours if possible. There was no explanation for the unexpected wave of cancellations today, other than the epidemic of colds and other ailments that usually prevent donors from keeping appointments.

Any one not already signed up for Wednesday but who can volunteer as a donor, is requested to contact headquarters. If that is not possible, don't permit it to keep you away.

Be a "Volunteer Donor" Wednesday.

GEORGIA TWISTER

Alapaha, Ga. (AP)—Violent winds of tornadic force leveled sections of this town of 600 persons yesterday and caused heavy property damage. None was killed. Mayor Julian P. Faulk estimated property damage would approach a half-million dollars.

Sentiment Grows in Federal Circles For Easing of Home Payment Requirements

Washington (AP)—Sentiment is growing in some government circles for an easing of down payment requirements on houses in the medium and upper price brackets, which have not been selling too well.

Several members of the Federal Reserve Board, which administers Regulation K over housing credit, favor the move, it was learned today.

The board is surveying the prospects and will talk things over with Raymond Foley, housing and home finance administrator, who would have to concur. The housing agency was reported cooler toward the proposal.

A final decision is expected in the next few weeks.

Regulation K now requires a sliding scale of down payments starting at $1,550 and zooming to 50 per cent down.

Loans guaranteed by the government for veterans carry smaller down payments.

RIDGWAY ON WAY TO TAKE N. A. T. O. POST

Tokyo (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who blocked the Communists in Korea and engineered the end of the Allied occupation of Japan, left today on his way to Europe to succeed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

It was only a year, a month and a day ago that Ridgway, soldier, diplomat and Pentagon troubleshooter, took over from Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of Allied powers in Japan.

As he left he turned over his United Nations and Far Eastern commands to Gen. Mark Clark.

At Haneda Airport were diplomats and high brass.

The Ridgways, Clark and Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida had walked shoulder to shoulder to the plane.

About 100,000 persons were scattered along the 15-mile route from the Ridgway mansion to the airport.

There was little of the pomp and ceremony that marked MacArthur's departure in April last year.

Ridgway will travel via Honolulu and San Francisco to Washington, where he will confer with President Truman.

PANAMA ELECTION IS WITHOUT BLOODSHED

Panama (AP)—Both major candidates in Panama's presidential balloting claimed victory today as election boards started the complicated process of determining the official winner. Yesterday's balloting was free of serious bloodshed but marked by scattered shooting, sniffling and charges of fraud and coercion.

Under the law, election boards must first separate the presidential ballots from those cast for National Assembly deputies.

Fuel Is Scarce On The Jersey Turnpike

Newark, N. J. (AP)—Gasoline supplies on the New Jersey Turnpike dwindled further today despite a promise that they would be replenished "by hook or by crook."

One of the nine gas stations on the 118-mile superhighway shut down late yesterday after it went dry, and most of the others are rationing what's left of their stores.

George F. Smith, turnpike vice chairman who made the "hook or crook" promise last night, announced a meeting today between turnpike commissioners, Cities Service Oil Co., and representatives of the CIO oilworkers.

However, Anthony F. McConlogue, president of oilworkers' Local 337, said he didn't know anything about such a meeting.

Accuse Communists Of Adopting New Propaganda Tactic

Munich, Korea (AP)—The United Nations Command today sharply accused the Communists of using the Korea armistice talks for a propaganda sounding board.

A UNC communique said the Reds fired "their most vicious propaganda attack of the 10-month armistice negotiations" in a 34-minute "tirade, obviously prepared in advance" and "filled with invective, distortions and palpable lies."

Another plenary session was scheduled for 11 a. m. Tuesday 9 p. m. EST, today. But Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior U. N. delegate, told the Reds the U. N. Command "formally disassociates itself from the propaganda purposes for which you are utilizing these meetings."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il delivered the blast. It was studded with Red accusations that the Allies mistreated Red prisoners of war.

Intercepted Note Reveals MacArthur Was Near Victory

Baltimore (AP)—One of Gen. MacArthur's former high aides says that the ousted Far Eastern commander knew from an intercepted enemy message that he had the Communists just about knocked out in Korea.

As a result, said Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers (ret.), MacArthur proposed that the Reds "talk truce or cease-fire."

Fellers, former chief of psychological warfare for MacArthur, told of the mysterious note in a recorded speech last night. The talk had been given earlier at an American Legion meeting here. It was re-broadcast in part over radio station WFBR.

MacArthur was supreme commander of Allied forces in the Far East at the time Fellers said the message was intercepted. The former aide stated it was sent by Communist troop commanders intended for headquarters in Peking.

President Truman fired MacArthur 13 months ago after the general had advocated a stepped-up war against the Chinese Communists.

Late Spring Snow Storm Hits the Area Following Copious Rains Over Weekend

With enough snowfall to cover the ground reported from Kane and from Bull Hill, near Sheffield, early this morning, Warren came in for its share of a mild blizzard which started just before 8 a. m. and continued throughout the early morning hours.

Belated rainfall due in April rather than in May started late Saturday and provided .55 of an inch between 7 a. m. Saturday and 7 a. m. Sunday while .07 of an inch of rainfall was recorded by Parks Superintendent G. H. Reier between 7 a. m. Sunday and 7 a. m. today.

RULING OVER INJUNCTION IS BEING ARGUED

Washington (AP)—Arguments on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel mills began before the Supreme Court at 11:22 a. m. (EST) today.

Washington (AP)—John W. steel companies, led off for the industry in its efforts to have the high tribunal uphold Dist. Judge David A. Pine's ruling last month that the seizure was unlawful.

Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general and acting attorney general, waited his turn to plead for a reversal of Pine's decision.

All of the approximately 300 seats in the high domed, marble-pillared court room were occupied when the court convened at 11 a. m. Would-be spectators formed in the corridors.

The front-row seats were reserved for attorneys, members of Congress and other dignitaries. The court's ruling, whenever it comes, will be of historic importance.

The big question—whether the president has inherent powers under the Constitution to seize private industries in national emergencies—may go unanswered because of the various alternative courses open to the court.

The industry is asking the Supreme Court to uphold the April 29 decision of Federal Judge David A. Pine. Pine ruled that Truman's steel seizure order of April 8, issued to head off a strike, was unconstitutional. He ordered the mills returned to their owners.

The Justice Department, supported by the CIO United Steelworkers, is asking that Judge Pine's injunction against seizing the mills be reversed.

The court may rule only on the narrow issue of the injunction itself. Or, the whole case could be sent back to the lower court for further arguments and findings.

There was no indication when the high court would hand down its decision.

The court set aside six hours for the two sides to present their viewpoints, starting this morning.

Acting Atty. Gen. Philip B. Perlman, who as solicitor general argues federal cases before the high court, is presenting the Justice Department's stand.

The steel companies are represented by 79-year-old John W. Davis, considered one of the nation's top constitutional lawyers.

The steel companies' brief contends the government was attempting to impose compulsory arbitration, was trying to settle a labor dispute by "executive fiat" and was bypassing the Taft-Hartley Act.

The Justice Department argued the president in seizing the mills acted to meet an emergency through powers set forth in the Constitution.

Exploding Meteor Causes Excitement

Seattle (AP)—Air Force investigators and astronomers, after checking hundreds of eyewitness reports, said today a fiery object which exploded with violent force over Seattle and the surrounding Puget Sound country early Sunday probably was a meteor.

They continued questioning witnesses from Olympia, 50 miles south of here, to Bellingham, 80 miles north, however, and started a search for "strange" materials they said might have come from a meteor.

The object flashed across the sky early yesterday. Airline pilots and ground observers said it exploded with a blinding flare and burst into flaming streamers.

Spring Creek Twp. Teachers Want Pay

A transportation appropriation of $9,000, due to be received in Spring Creek township this week, will solve an overdue pay problem for seven school bus drivers and three teachers in that municipality.

The appropriation is being paid by the Department of Public Instruction somewhat later this year than usual. Meanwhile, the town ship school treasury has been drained by going expenses, and it was thought for a time that it might be necessary to close the school temporarily.

County Superintendent of Schools H. L. Blair has received word from Harrisburg that the money is on its way.

According to the Corry Journal, a factor in the shortage of funds is the fact that a former school board, which set up the current budget, set up a tax rate which left the township about $12,000 short of needed money.

Because of the financial condition of the district, attempts are being made to have it declared a "distress" district in order to receive additional aid from the state.

New York—(NEA)—A balding, graying man in his fifties, he lives quietly now, almost forgotten, in the little town of Darien, Conn., with his wife and five children.

But he nurses as vivid a set of memories as ever a man was cursed or blessed with.

Twenty-five years ago this month he came out of the West with a big hope and a small airplane, and said he planned to fly the Atlantic Ocean non-stop from New York to Paris. It had never been done before.

But he did it. His name was Charles Augustus Lindbergh.

The lanky, curly-haired youngster of 25 already with the familiar crinkle-cornered eyes of the flyer, turned up at Curtiss Field, Long Island, on May 12, 1927, with a silver-nosed monoplane he called the Spirit of St. Louis.

Airplanes had just reached the point of development where a transatlantic flight was believed barely possible. The Frenchmen Nungesser and Goh had gone down at sea only that week in an attempt. Death and crack-ups had ended other ventures. At least two planes were all set to take off from New York when Lindbergh learned, on the night of May 19, that the storms over the Atlantic were breaking up.

The rest of the night he spent in hurried preparation. No sleep. With five sandwiches and five quarts of water, Lindbergh climbed into his plane at 7:40 the next morning. At 7:51 the plane its single Wright Whirlwind engine developing only 200 horsepower, began trundling slowly and heavily down the muddy landing strip.

It was loaded to the limit with fuel. No engine of that horsepower had ever lifted such a heavy load. The big job was the take-off, now underway. Already three contenders—Fonck, Davis and Wooster—had failed to get off the ground.

Many in the crowd at Curtiss Field that May 20 morning sincerely doubted that Lindbergh would ever make it. Slowly the plane gained speed. It passed the point where Lindbergh could still stop it without cracking up.

Pilots in the crowd twisted and turned, trying hopefully to get the plane off the ground with own body English. "Get the tail up, get the tail up," they urged, half aloud.

Finally the tail did come up, then the wheels lifted ever so slightly. Over a tractor by a 10-foot margin, over telephone wires by a scant 20 feet. But she was off and flying.

Some 12 hours later the Spirit of St. Louis, a tiny speck in the sky, was sighted on course, and on schedule over Newfoundland. Then Lindbergh ran into storms. He had to turn at right angles, flying first north and then south, to dodge through the boiling clouds which meant big winds.

Back in New York's Yankee yelled, "Which way's Ireland?" The astonished fisherman in the boat just looked, speechless.

But fishing boats meant land not far away, and in a few hours Lindbergh spotted the southern tip of Ireland.

Over Ireland, England, and the Channel. At the French coast he picked up the beacon lights of the London-Paris airway. They guided him in to Paris' Le Bourget airfield, where his wheels touched down 33½ hours after they'd lifted from Curtiss Field.

A crowd of 100,000 wildly cheering Frenchmen greeted him at the airport. They hauled him bodily from his plane and passed him along overhead hand-to-hand, toiling and twisting. It was one half-hour before his feet touched the ground.

The world went wild when Charles Augustus Lindbergh landed in Paris on May 21, 1927, the first man to fly the Atlantic non-stop.

Movie programs were interrupted to bring the news. The staid New York Times used an exclamation point in its headline, "Lindbergh Does It!" It ran six solid pages of text on the story.

Paris feted and honored him as only Paris can. There were receptions to attend, official visits to be made, high honors to be accepted. Through this heady hoopla, Lindbergh got wise counsel and fatherly advice from the late Myron T. Herrick, U. S. Ambassador to France.

Herrick greeted him officially when he arrived at Le Bourget, then took him home to the American Embassy to sleep. The unpretentious youngster from the Midwest even had to borrow a suit from Herrick's son to appear at the formal proceedings which followed.

Even after Paris had accorded him one of the most tumultuous welcomes in its history, Lindbergh confided to Herrick that he'd brought two or three letters of introduction because "this is a new country and nobody knows me here."

Lindbergh and his plane came home triumphantly on a United States cruiser at the order of President Coolidge. His tickettaped welcome was one New Yorker will never forget.

Through it all, Lindbergh—now Lucky Lindy and the Lone Eagle —acted with complete modesty. He turned down more than $2,500,000 in movie advertising offers.

Four years later the Lindbergh name had again taken over the headlines in the nation's newspapers, but this time it was a story of tragedy. His 19-month-old child, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnapped, and three months later was found dead near the family's home at Hopewell, N. J.

For nearly four more years, until the kidnaper, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, was electrocuted for the crime at Trenton, N. J., on April 3, 1936, the story was top news.

In 1935 the Lindberghs went to England to get away from the terrible ordeal of the kidnapping. While he was there, Major Truman Smith, United States military attaché at Berlin, invited him to Germany to take a look at their fast-growing German air force.

Field Marshal Goering, head of the Luftwaffe, was flattered by Lindbergh's presence and rolled out the plush welcome carpet. Lindbergh got a thorough look at the Luftwaffe, from the inside out. He and Maj. Smith's report to Washington was a masterpiece of military intelligence and won Smith the Distinguished Service Medal.

Lindbergh then, in 1936, began checking on the air forces of other countries, always working closely with our ambassadors in the foreign capitals and reporting direct to Washington.

In 1939 he came back to this country and went on active duty as a colonel. But when war broke out in France, he became a civilian again. He was a leader in the America First Committee, speaking out strongly against our involvement in the European war.

President Roosevelt criticized him so harshly that Lindbergh thought he was being accused virtually of treason. So he resigned his reserve commission.

After Pearl Harbor he offered his service to the War Department, but was turned down. But Henry Ford took him on as a consultant in B-24 bomber construction.

Later in World War II, Lindbergh went to the Pacific theatre and flew 50 combat missions as a fighter pilot, though he was then in his forties. He lived and worked like the rest of the pilots,

Buddy Poppies Are Made by Disabled Vets in Hospitals

Thousands of disabled veterans confined to VA hospitals and soldiers' homes made the 20,000,000 Buddy Poppies that will be ready for sale to the general public throughout the country prior to Memorial Day. In Warren, Commander George J. Jaman, of the Duxbury-Schwing Post, announces that the sale of the Poppy is will take place this weekend.

According to Commander Jaman, the Buddy Poppy carries a copyright label on which are printed the words "Made by disabled veterans." The public is warned to avoid purchase of poppies that will not be identified with the government registered trademark of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Ever since 1922, when the VFW conducted the first nationwide sale of Buddy Poppies, the Veterans' Administration has permitted disabled veterans under government care to assemble the materials that are needed to create the official VFW Buddy Poppy.

Veterans' Administration officials have always regarded the making of Buddy Poppies by disabled veterans as a valuable form of occupational therapy. The experience is regarded as a morale booster for convalescent patients, who benefit from the psychological reaction of proving useful to themselves and to the cause which the VFW Buddy Poppy represents.

nearly all youngsters, but he wore no insignia.

Since the war he has lived largely in retirement, emerging now and then to do some work with our Air Force units abroad.

The Spirit of St. Louis is now at the Smithsonian Institution, in Washington, as much in the public eye as Lindbergh is out of it. More visitors ask questions about the plane than any other exhibit there.

Once in a while Lindbergh drops by to take a look at it. People who've spotted him there say his look is a little wistful.

Marriage-Minded Girls Make Mistake in Sticking Together

THERE is one mistake marriage-minded girls often make. They stick too close together.

Sue would like to find a husband. There's no doubt about that in Sue's mind or in the minds of those who know her well.

But Sue isn't giving herself a break. She is so afraid of being seen alone, she is always with another girl or a group of girls.

If an eligible man having lunch alone sees Sue, he doesn't have a chance to ask if he can sit at her table. For Sue is busy exchanging confidences over lunch with another girl, or several other girls.

If Sue decides to go swimming and telephones another girl to go with her. So if a male acquaintance wanted to drop down beside Sue on the swimming pool's edge, he'd have to brave a feminine tressome, which takes more courage than many a man has.

SET OUT ALONE ON HUSBAND SEARCH

EVEN the organizations Sue has joined in the hope of meeting men have had little benefit. For she wouldn't think of going to a club meeting alone. She always takes another girl along.

When vacation rolls around it's the same thing. Sue looks around for a girl who'll vacation with her.

What Sue doesn't realize is that husband hunting is poor when girls hunt in pairs.

Two women together just aren't as intriguing as a woman alone. Remember that, girls, when you plan your vacation or decide that you'll join a mixed social or hobby group.

Strike out alone and you'll have better luck with your husband hunting.

Carol Barrett Is Heard In Second Recital of Piano

Once again the attractive parlors of the Woman's Club have been the setting for an evening of music. Carol Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Barrett, North Warren, was presented there in a piano recital Saturday evening by her teacher, Rachel W. Eaton.

In her second full-length piano recital during her high school days, Miss Barrett provided clear evidence of commendable growth in technical facility. Especially noted, also, was her maturing sense of the power of piano tone-colors to create richly beautiful contrasts. This ability was shown first in the exquisite beauty of the Andante of Bach's Italian Concerto, which opened the recital.

Outstanding in the second group was the performance of Balakirev's arrangement of The Lark by Glinka. Miss Barrett achieved a graceful, crystal clear rendition of this work. Handling to her credit, also, was her handling of the Liszt piano background for Schumann's great melody, Dedication.

After a contrasting third group, including works of Debussy and Gershwin, the pianist encoored with the gay and lively Polka from L'Age d'or by Shostakovich, totally captivating her audience by her enthusiastic interpretation.

Miss Barrett displayed outstanding musicianship in the final work, Grieg's Concerto in A Minor, first movement, during which she was ably supported at the second piano by Mrs. Eaton. A challenge even to the adult performer, this music gave the pianist an opportunity to display skill in handling dramatic fortissimo passages with technical ease and impressive musical effectiveness. Homer Grunn's Humoresque Negre and The Music Box by Immanuel Liebhew were graciously played as closing encores.

Robert Dietrich, tenor, was the assisting artist. He sang two groups of songs, of which very effective interpretations of Handel's Where'er You Walk and Rachmaninoff's In the Silence of the Night were highlights. Mr. Dietrich brings to the audience real pleasure through a beautiful lyric tenor voice quality, and a sincere stage manner.

HONOR BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. Ernest Carlson and Mrs. Alfred Carlson were hostesses at the home of the latter, Oneida avenue, for a shower party which honored Mary Henning, whose marriage to Donald Peterson will take place May 31.

After a pleasant evening of games, with prizes awarded the winners, refreshments were served from a table attractively done in blue and yellow and the honored one was remembered with many nice gifts. Guests were Katherine Henning, Frances Peterson, Clara Wilkins, Edith White, Joan White, Dorothy Geddes and Martha Simpson.

Judges Announced for Woman's Club Annual Art Talent Recognition Show

Mrs. Joseph DeFrees announces today names of those who will be judges for the annual Art Talent Recognition Show to be held at the Woman's Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Thoroughly qualified through both experience and background, the individuals are all tops in their respective artistic fields.

The three who will judge the paintings are Mrs. Morris Bowman, wife of Dr. Bowman, Jamestown, N. Y.; Hubert S. Randall, Bradford; and Richard Sigafos, Stedman, N. Y.

Mrs. Bowman studied art in New York City and is a graduate of Columbia Teachers College. Before her marriage, she was an art instructor in the Jamestown public schools and, since her retirement from teaching, has acted as judge for various art exhibits in that vicinity. It will be recalled that she was one of the judges for the first art talent show held at the Woman's Club five years ago.

Mr. Randall, art supervisor for Bradford secondary schools, is a graduate of Westminster College, where he studied art. Before becoming associated with the Bradford schools, he maintained a commercial art studio in Erie and was employed in that city as a designer for the Lakeside Plastics Company.

The third judge, Mr. Sigafos, is well known throughout this territory, having taught more than 250 private pupils within the past four years. A former teacher in the Albright Gallery in Buffalo, N. Y., Mr. Sigafos has, at present, many students from both Chautauque and Warren counties.

Mrs. Mary Critoph will judge the ceramics division. A student of F. Carlton Ball, of the California College of Arts and Crafts, she has been director of the ceramics department of Falconer, N. Y., High School, and has had her work accepted for exhibit by the Artists of Western New York Show at the Albright Gallery. Her teacher was one of the artists at the California World's Fair, in the Art in Action building, and a director of Mills College Ceramic Guild.

John O. Bowman, Jamestown, N. Y., will be judge of the photography section. Johnny, as he is known to friends, has had widespread fame since he first started taking pictures in 1936 with a Brownie box camera which cost him 75 cents and six coffee coupons. This Week, Look and Collier's have added to his reputation and in the New York World's Fair he had 126 enlargements on display.

Entrants' names are turned to the wall during judging and, after the best entries have been selected, ribbons are attached to all prize winners. Mrs. S. M. McClure is entry chairman.

The work of hanging and dismantling is under the direction of Mrs. Sidney W. Blackman, whose aides include Mrs. Fred Emhardt, Mrs. A. J. Paucak, Mrs. Richard Costley, Mrs. A. F. Yerg and Mrs. Robert Wilder.

Show hours will be from 2:00 until 9:00 p. m. Thursday and Friday, 2:00 until 5:00 p. m. Saturday, with admission free to the public.

Players' Production Is Outstanding One from Many Different Viewpoints

"The Silver Whistle," 70th public production of the Warren Players, presented Thursday and Friday nights at the Woman's Club auditorium, was a notable performance from several standpoints.

It was one of the best numbers presented by the players in some time, and featured just about perfect casting.

One who would not have known the Fred Plummer stepped into the role of Oliver Erwiner only one week before the performance and committed to memory one of the heaviest line loads ever given a member of the club. One could not rightly call him a "substitute" for the original member of the cast. He gave one of the outstanding performances of his amateur career, and was even helped by "Omar," the fighting cock, who entered into the spirit of the story, talking back when spoken to and looking out at the audience with the same aplomb as the star.

Jeanne Lopez as Miss Hoadly, who was visibly loaded most of the time on stage, gave a performance which will long be remembered in Players' annals.

Henry Walker and Ervin Rader, as two elderly gentlemen so kindly rejuvenated by the star and his "potion," direct from Tibet, were perfect, even to gestures and mannerisms of those of advanced years. In fact, the entire cast of 15 performed in a way which left little to be desired from an audience standpoint.

Another mention must be made of the set. The construction of it involved use of a real tree, brought in by Arthur Honhart and his crew. In addition to providing considerable atmosphere for the scene, it provided a fine repository for a bottle of scotch, much sought after during the play.

When this writer was leaving, we were amused to hear a mother ask her small son, "How did you like it?" The lad replied with considerable enthusiasm, "I liked the cop." We did, too. In fact, we liked the entire show.

Tips for a Thrifty Bride

MAKE YOUR OWN BRIDAL HEADDRESS . . . Pictured here are three styles of bridal caps and veils which may be made at home. Left, white satin ribbon is used to cover a buckram foundation, seed pearls are sewn around the border of the cap. Waist-length illusion veiling edged with 3 1/2-inch lace is attached inside the cap. Sketched at right top is a Juliet cap latticed with flowers sewn on grassy ribbon; at bottom is a tiara of Tulle covered with crocheted crystal bugle beads and seed pearls. Patterns and directions for all three, plus a fourth in cardinal cap style to be made of quilted satin, are included in McCall's Needlework Pattern 1693.

The bride who plans for the future may like to economize on her wedding finery and save up for furnishings for her new home.

This is a typical attitude of many of today's smart girls. Even if Dad is footing the bill for the trousseau, the foresighted bride often suggests she'd rather have a cash gift than an extravagant wedding gown, with all the trimmings.

And usually Dad agrees, with admiration for her thrift.

There are many ways of cutting corners and still have a wedding as beautiful as any bride could desire. A simple organza wedding gown is suitable for a summer wedding, and can be bought or made for less than $50, if the bride and her mother are wise shoppers.

Even the bridal headdress now can be made at home, simply and with charming effect. Simple patterns, with full directions, now are available for making several styles of bridal caps and coronets, to be worn with veils which also may be made.

This sort of preparation for the wedding is fun, if there is time. And the wise bride also starts her planning early.

A garden wedding, a small home reception and a simple wedding gown can add up to perfection—and still save money for that future home.

Mrs. Harry Mickel led the devotions, and gave a reading by Fulton Ouster, "It Happened Twice." Mrs. Ralph Pitt was in charge of the program with two contests, "Nursery Rhymes" and "Noah's Ark." The winners were Mrs. Emma Secor, Mrs. O. M. Borden, Mrs. Harry Mickel and Mrs. Lyla Camp.

Quick Work Saves Sheffield Building

Fire of undetermined origin threatened the O'Connor Machine Company Friday afternoon at 1:20. The high winds of the previous day had torn a large section of the tar paper roofing from the building and this was being replaced by workmen when the old tar paper and some timbers on the southwest side of the building became ignited, presumably from a carelessly tossed cigarette. The highly inflammable material, fanned by a strong wind in close proximity of the main building, would have caused a bad fire had it not been for prompt action. The fire department was on the scene for 15 minutes with 22 men. No damage resulted.

Richmond, Va. (AP)—The Order of Circus Saints and Sinners selected James Schombom of Bradford, Pa., president, at the organization's annual meeting over the weekend.

REAL REASON

The tremendous increase in the world's population in recent years is not the result of a rising birth rate, but of a falling death rate.

First marriage in the White House was March 11, 1811, and United Justice Thomas Todd, of the Supreme Court, and Lucy Washington.

WARREN HIGH SQUAD POSTS FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTORY BY NARROW MARGIN, 59-50

PATRICK HAS NEW MARK IN DISCUS THROW

There was nothing mendacious about the Warren High track and field squad Friday, when it encountered the Titusville Rockets at Carter Field and upheld a promise not to let its 1952 record be spoiled. The Dragons now boast a streak of five victories, one in a triangular contest, and will be after number six when they visit Oil City tomorrow afternoon.

In posting their 59-50 win, the Dragons earned only six out of a possible 13 first places, but collaborated for seven seconds and eight third places out of 11 to make up the difference in the victory margin.

Friday's meet was, however, far from the walk-away when the Rockets visited here and were beaten 69-49. The meet went the finish before victory was cinched, and the lack of three of Warren's better contenders made the tension even higher.

Coach Loyal Briggs' third-grade not only chalked up their fifth straight victory, but for the same number of meets, they still continued to crash records. This time Ben Patrick, who led the Blue and White with 11 points, broke his previous record in the discus throw set in 1951, by hurling the object 129 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Three of the cindermen also remained undefeated Friday. They were Sam DeLeo, 440 ace; Max Krespan in the mile run; and Rod Morley, record breaking 880 man. All three of these speedsters are juniors. Other winners in the meet were Patrick, shot put, his fourth; the two-lap relay team, Bob Harrington, Bob Nine, Bob Patch and Dick Hegerty; and the four-lap team, DeLeo, Bill Cramer, Rod Morley, and George Scalise. The latter's crew victory gave the Dragons their decisive margin.

Titusville's Donnie Bird continued to live up to his reputation as one of the area's outstanding, by winning all three of his specialties of the 100, 220 and broad jump. Bird will undoubtedly be getting his toughest competition in the dashes today when he meets up with Corry's ace, Jim Coates.

Sixteen members of the well-balanced Dragon squad shared in the victory, Patrick leading with 11 points, followed by DeLeo and Harrington with 7 1/2 each; Morley, 6 1/2; Hegerty, 5 1/2; and Krespan with 5. Others with less than five were Cramer, Dean Vesling, Scalise, Nine, Patch, Milt Confer, Stan McClelland, Fahey Morley, Rod McCollough and Bernie Gray. Four time loser, Oil City, finished the meet with 49 points.

At 6:30 p. m. Saturday, the bowlers gathered for a banquet at the Marconi Outing Club where officers were elected, with S. J. Mayhew of Johnstown, Penelec superintendent of production, and B. W. Johnson, also of Johnstown, being elected president and secretary, respectively, for the eleventh consecutive year. Mr. Johnson acted as toastmaster and among those introduced were John Grove of Bradford, personnel director for the Northern District; Joe Reisman of Oil City, in charge of industrial lighting; Frank Smythe, chief engineer of the Oil City plant; and K. R. Williams, chief engineer in Warren.

The S. J. Mayhew trophy cup was presented by Mr. Mayhew to the winning team from the Northwest Division.

While most of the visitors came in private cars, there was a busload from Johnstown and another from Erie, with an automobile convoy having been formed by the Altoona visitors.

"So What?" Dykes' Comment as Phils Make More Errors

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Philadelphia (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, who tied for last year's American League fielding championship, are making more errors and less double plays this year—prompting Manager Jimmy Dykes to say, "So what?"

Dykes is one of those managers who is willing to trade double plays for victories. "We have less double plays and more victories. That's bad?"

The Philadelphia skipper got into the subject of fielding after his club lost two straight because fielders missed pop flies that major leagues are expected to catch, a "bad" out of a hundred times.

Saturday, Ferris Fahn charged for a pop near the pitcher's box. He dropped it. The next batter singled home two runs to win for the Senators.

The bases were loaded in the 11th of yesterday's first game with Eddie Yost at bat. Carl Scheib forced Yost to lift a high foul fly behind first base. As Dyke tells it, right fielder Elmer Valo raced in shouting, "I got it." Second baseman Skeeter Kell cried, "I got it." They believed each other.

Yost hit the next pitch for a single to give Washington the ball game.

"Those things happen," said Dykes. "The boys hesitated and you know that he who hesitates is lost. We lost."

50 K. of C. Bowlers Going to New York

When the eastbound Pennsylvania train pulls out of Warren, Thursday night, it will carry a special car loaded with 50 bowlers from the Warren lodge of the Knights of Columbus, en route to New York City to take part in the K. of C. Eastern National Bowling Tournament.

Warren's five-man teams are scheduled to bowl at 2:45 p. m. Friday, followed by doubles and singles events at 12:45 p. m. Saturday. The tournament is to be held in the Mid-City Bowling Alleys in the new Port Authority building, and the local men will be quartered in Hotel New Yorker.

A complete list of the team and doubles entries from the Warren lodge will appear in Tuesday's Times-Mirror.

Hornell Tightens Pony League Grip

By The Associated Press
A pair of young Hornell hurlers flashed mid-season form over the weekend as the Dodgers cemented their grip on the PONY League lead.

Stan Deneka, 19, scattered seven hits yesterday to guide the Dodgers to a 3-1 win over Batavia.

Hornell's Art Grenon didn't need too much batting help Saturday night as he fashioned a 10-2 victory over the Hamilton Cardinals.

The Jamestown Falcons climbed within 2 1/2 games of the leaders yesterday with Bob Neebinger shutting out Bradford, 6-0.

Sunset Opener For Today Is Postponed

Because of wet weather, today, the Sunset Baseball League will postpone its opening games between the Warren Business School and Warren Elks, and the Youngsville Merchants and Warren Merchants, until a later date.

Instead, weather permitting, the initial games will be played Wednesday, with the Warren Merchants vs. WBS on Memorial Field, and the Elks vs. Youngsville at the State Hospital diamond.

The make-up dates for today's contests will be announced upon agreement of team managers.

Greenbrier Open Won by Sam Snead

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. (AP)—There's no place like home, of course, and for Sam Snead there's no place like his home course.

Sam proved it again yesterday with a 4-under-par 66 in a drizzling rain to win the $1,800 first prize in the Greenbrier Open, played over the layout where he also picks up loose change as golf professional.

It was his fourth straight sub-par round and gave him a 72-hole total of 264.

Skill in Transplanting Saves Plants from Shock

Mix Plant Food With Soil in Bottom of the Hole, and Cover With Fresh Soil.

Transplanting, the movement of a plant from one location to another, is garden surgery. It administers a shock to the plant which may be compared to the effect of an operation. Most plants will recover, even though the operator is unskilled, but there are a few simple precautions which will increase the percentage of success.

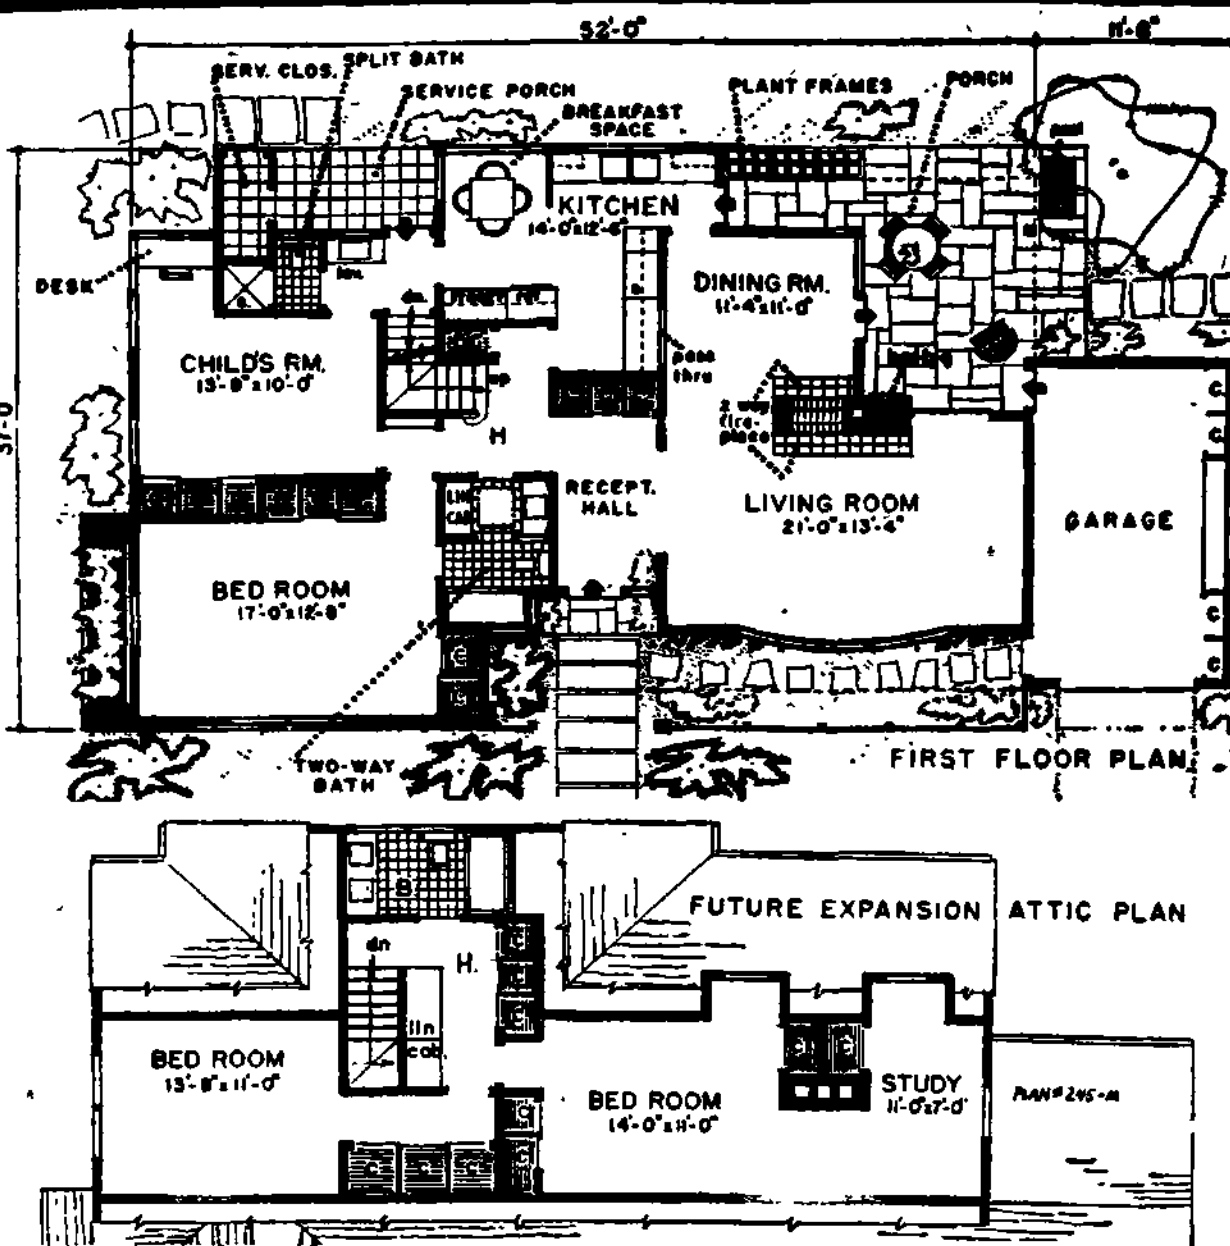

If you are growing your own plants, prepare them for the experience by giving an extra feeding a week before the operation. In a bucket of water (3½ gallons) hang a cloth bag containing 10 ounces of your regular plant food. Four ounces to the gallon. Let it soak overnight, then water the flat with the solution. This will build up the energy of your plants, for the ordeal to come.

The night before the operation, prepare another bucket of water the same way; or by using a soluble plant food according to the instructions for a starter solution. Make it to the garden along with the plants.

It is important to disturb the roots of plants as little as possible. If they are in pots, the soil will come out in a ball with little disturbance. If in a flat they can be lifted with small injury, by taking care. Transplants which have been purchased without soil should not be allowed to dry out, and be kept in the shade.

Dig a hole large enough to hold the plant roots with room to spare, and deeper than necessary. Mix a teaspoonful of plant food with soil

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures

A HOUSE OF IDEAS, this plan features comfortable living possibilities indoors and outdoors. Two compartmented bathrooms on the main floor and space for a third bath upstairs, where extra bedrooms and 10 additional closets can be finished off later, are among outstanding advantages. A lavatory in the rear service entry is handy for the children, the garden hobbyist and convenient to the kitchen. One chimney serves basement heating plant, two-way fireplace between living room and dining room and a barbecue fireplace on the garden porch. This is plan 245-M by Rudolph A. Mafern, architect, 90-04 181st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y. The house covers only 1,443 square feet, without porches and garage, yet has a capacity of seven rooms, three baths and 22 closets.

Many Schools Seek Money From State

With the Warren Borough School Authority having been the first to submit an application for state aid in constructing a new school building, the Public Instruction Department in Harrisburg disclosed today it already has received 82 applications for state aid to finance construction since enactment of a new law, described as "a boon to everyone" which permits school districts to set up for the first time a municipal authority to handle school construction.

Scores of school districts in various parts of the state, hit by existing and impending classroom shortages, have applied for help.

Aid asked by other districts in northern Pennsylvania includes petitions from Corry Area Jointure and North East township in Erie county; Union township in Lawrence county; and from two in Beaver county, Center township and Fairview Jointure.

PTA MEETING
A meeting of Grade PTA, of Sugar Grove Farmington township, will be held at the Lander school Tuesday evening. Program will include the showing of two films, "Life With Baby," and "Variety." Brotherhood Hears Talk by Director At State Hospital

Robert Colter presided at the May meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran Brotherhood and Richard Osterman conducted the devotional service. After taking constructive action on several business matters, the program opened with a group of well played accordion selections by Sonia Stover and Jean Simonson.

The Brotherhood, cooperating in Pennsylvania Mental Health Week to improve public relations toward the mentally ill, invited Nelson A. Johnson, social director at Warren State Hospital, to be the speaker for the evening. Mr. Johnson offered evidence of the remarkably improved results being secured by use of new medicines and treatment; told the group that of the steady stream of new patients arriving at the hospital 80% of those under 60 years of age are discharged, the hopeless cases, therefore, being in the minority.

At present, he said, one of the greatest needs is the securing of the best possible public cooperation toward mental hospitals and the patients, as the latter are returned to normal life. To bring this about, he explained, colleges and high schools are bringing large numbers of student groups to the mental institutions to inspect the buildings, become famillar with the problems, and realize that mental illness is no different than any other illness of the body. Doctors and the churches are assisting greatly in bringing about improvements, he concluded.

Hosts for this constructive meeting were Clarence Hendrickson, Arthur Hedberg, G. Gustafson and A. Holmberg.

CORYDON

Carydon—Ladies Aid members of the Methodist church met with Mrs. Bennett Putnam, president of the group. The afternoon was occupied mainly with a special benefit party and routine business matters. A supper luncheon concluded the affair served by the hosts. Those present were Rev. and Mrs. DeForest Tennies, Mrs. J. K. Crooks, Mrs. Ruth Crooks, Mrs. Harold Blair, Mrs. Putnam. The next hostess will be Mrs. Blair May 22.

Mrs. Lewis Remington was hostess to members of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Church of the Nazarene, with a delicious dinner served to conclude a social afternoon. Those present were Rev. Viola Doverspike, Mrs. E. M. Stoltz, Mrs. Olive Fair, Mrs. Lena Schuler, Mrs. Girtha Crooks, Mrs. Margaret Ruth, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Remington and the Rev. and Mrs. Clifton Thomas, guest speakers the past fourteen days at the local church.

Former Warren Society Editor Visits Here After Three Years in Germany

Captain Bernice C. Shine, former Warren reporter and society editor, who went from here to Erie and finally to The Sun-Telegraph in Pittsburgh, was visiting friends and relatives in Warren and Kinsua last week, after returning from three years' duty with the Women's Army Corps in Munich, Germany. Accompanying her to Warren were her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Shaffer, Chatham Village. Mrs. Shaffer (Mary Shine) is club editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

For the last two years Captain Shine has been officer-in-charge of the Munich-American, official newspaper of Munich Military Post. Next month she will assume new duties in the VAC Training Center at Ft. Lee, Va. Captain Shine went to the Munich-American on March 6, 1950, from the Meun Mill Post Public Information Office where she held the assignment of assistant Public Information Officer and Post Historian from the time of her arrival in Munich in March, 1949.

According to a news release received from Munich, the Munich-American grew into one of the top papers of the zone under her guidance. It won second place for the year 1949-50 and first in 1950-51. It also took three first place "Pat-on-the-Back" awards from the Armed Forces Press Services for being the outstanding Army overseas service newspaper.

Captain Shine, the Munich report adds, "was often mentioned in the monthly critiques from Robert Booth, chief of European Command Unit Publications Branch, and the editors of Stars and Stripes. Shortly after her arrival the paper began to place first in the critiques and since July 1950, has only missed placing first or tying for first, one time.

Captain Shine joined the service in September, 1943, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1944. After duty in this country, she attended Military Government School and was sent to the Far Eastern Command. There she was assigned to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters in Tokyo.

In 1947, she requested separation from the service and rejoined the staff of the Sun-Telegraph. After eight months in civilian life she was asked to apply for active duty.

She holds the Good Conduct Medal, American Theatre Asiatic-Pacific Theatre and the Victory medals. Her Occupation Ribbon covers both the European and Far Eastern Commands.

SHIFT TO DIAMONDS WAS A REAL BONUS

I certainly thought I was going to beat that hand," sighed Hard Luck Joe.
Maybe he should have, and maybe you can find his mistake. Joe opened the king of hearts from the West hand, and continued with the ace of hearts. South ruffed the second heart with the eight of spades and calmly returned the nine of spades.

Joe thought about playing a low spade in the hope that his partner could beat the nine, but he eventually saw through the trap and won the trick with the queen of spades. Since dummy was out of hearts, Joe shifted to a diamond.

Dummy won with the ace of diamonds, and another low trump was ducked to Joe's king. Dummy still had a trump to stop the hearts, and it didn't make any difference what Joe returned. Declarer could easily gain the lead to draw two more rounds of trumps, and then the rest of the tricks were his.

Joe wasn't unlucky, of course; he pulled a boner. See if you can spot his mistake before you go on. It was correct for Joe to lead two rounds of hearts and to win the first trump with the queen. He made his mistake when he shifted to diamonds. He should have kept leading hearts at every opportunity.

Suppose West takes the queen of spades and leads a third heart. Dummy must ruff to let South keep his length in trumps. But now dummy has only one trump. Declarer must let that trump out to give West the king of spades, and now West can lead hearts for the fourth time.

By this time dummy has no more trumps, and South is forced to ruff for the second time. This leaves him with one trump less than West. Hence West must make one of his low trumps as well as his two high trumps. He sets the contract with three trump tricks and one heart.

METZGER-WRIGHT'S

DOOMROCK

BY ARCHIE JOSCELYN

Chapter 20

FELIX Tarson had watched the arrival of Melody in town, her visit to the law office and her subsequent departure. Not until she had started back for the ranch did he venture to call on the colonel.

"Well?" he asked, without preamble.

"She is not only willing, but anxious, to cooperate," he nodded. "I dropped various hints which will, I trust, bear fruit."

Felix nodded, turned and went out to the street again. For a moment he hesitated. Then, deliberately, he headed for the dress-making shop of Nancy Neilson.

"She was busy at her sewing-machine as he pushed open the door. For a moment there was a startled expression on her face as she looked up, but he saw, as he had hoped, that the shop was empty of customers."

"Is there something that I can do for you, Mr. Tarson?" she asked.

Felix helped himself to a chair, sprawling negligently. It was funny, he thought, that he'd never before noticed how really pretty Nancy Neilson was.

"I want to have a talk with you, Nancy," he said. "Sit down. And you used to call me Felix. Nancy hesitated, then resumed her own chair. She looked undecided."

"I don't like to talk about some things," Felix added, and heated as a sudden, completely new and startling idea leaped, unbidden, into his mind. For a moment he considered it, talking mechanically.

"I reckon you were pretty much hurt, Nancy—the deal Steve gave you," he added. "It was raw. But, so far as I'm concerned at least, it has some good connected with it. The fact is, I figured Steve had so I stayed away. Now that he's out of it—well, that gives me the right to come around."

Nancy caught her breath. The implication of his words was clear enough, but this side of his nature was a complete surprise to her.

"Like I say, I've kept clear where it seemed the field was closed," Felix went on. "Folks have remarked that I never went out with any girls. Under the circumstances, I didn't want to. But—well, I'm being pretty crude and blunt about all this, I guess, and abrupt, maybe, but what I'm doing, Nancy, is asking you to marry me. We can wait a while, if you like."

"This is rather sudden," she said. "When did you think of it, Felix—after you came in here?"

Felix stared, his jaw slack for a moment. Here was unlooked for insight as well as beauty. Maybe he had really been over-looking something.

"Don't you believe what I just told you, Nancy?" he demanded. "No, I don't believe you," she retorted. "I know the Tarsons pretty well. You're not like Matt, but if you'd really been interested in me, you'd have tried your luck before now."

Felix's interest was growing. The idea had been new, seeming to promise to pay off if he could put it over. Now he found himself thinking of Nancy Neilson as a human being, and rather more than just a girl. He grinned disarmingly.

"It sort of strikes me that both of us have been some mistaken about each other," he said. "Maybe I made a mistake. But I did figure it wouldn't do me any good to come around. I see I was mistaken where Steve was concerned. Kind of a blow to your pride, I suppose, the way he did things, same as it was to Matt's. But it meant he considered it, talking mechanically."

"I think you're pretty well right, there," she agreed.

"I'm sure glad it was that way," Felix declared. "For I meant it, Nancy. How about marrying me?"

"What you really want of me, Felix, is something which I'm supposed to have—but don't. Everybody thinks that I control the company that holds the Mortgage on Diamond R. You came in here in the first place to ask me about that. Then you decided that it might be a simpler and better deal if you could get me to marry you—on the rebound, as it were. So I don't particularly appreciate the compliment. But you'd be badly disappointed. I don't have anything whatever to do with that mortgage. If I did, I'm not at all certain that I'd cooperate with you. But since I don't, that releases you of all obligation. Under the circumstances, of course, you wouldn't be at all interested in marrying me."

She finished, proudly, swinging back to her machine, turning her back squarely on him. That, to her mind, closed the interview.

Felix came awkwardly to his feet, then stood for a moment, fumbling his hat, uncertain what to do or say. With sudden clarity of insight to equal her own, he looked about the little shop, seeing it with new eyes. It was cheerful and pleasant, but the stock of goods was small and poor. There was no evidence of wealth, no plaything for an idle moment.

He had believed that she controlled that mortgage, through a company which was supposed to own it. Since she did not—then she probably had no real money anywhere, no heritage at all save the pitifully meagre amount which had enabled her to buy this shop and make a bare living from it. She had been too proud to tell anyone that her father had wasted his ranch away, had sold because he had no choice but to pay his creditors, and that, far from being rich, she was desperately poor.

Felix stared at her with a strange look in his eyes. Then, still awkwardly, he crossed and touched her, almost fearfully, on the shoulder.

"You had the sized up right, all the way, Nancy," he said with unexpected honesty. "That was what I wanted. But—hang it, Nancy, I was a lot more right than I knew. I don't need money—the Tarsons have plenty now. But I've found that there's something I do need. I'll be coming back—and I hope you'll think that over, what I said. It still goes. I'll be proud to marry you—if you'll have me."

Is your range out of date?

Much of the space next to the oven and broiler has been wasted ever since you demanded the table-top type of range. Drawers take up too much room in being drawers, and bins or compartments are awkward.

Wheel-about DOES A DOUBLE STORAGE JOB! It has twice the usable space for utensils—two shelves for pots and pans, plus a shallow drawer for kitchen knives, spoons, spatulas. And it is also a cart table that stores itself in the very space usually badly utilized in the range.

Wheel-about comes only with Famous Universal Gas Ranges! America's leading moderate-priced quality cooking appliance for almost a century. With such exclusive refinements as an all-chrome broiler pan, a radiant broiler burner, a light in the oven, and Simmer-Save Keep-Warm top burners. They will outperform any range, using any fuel, in boiling, baking, roasting and broiling. It is a GAS range.
